

Sealladh

Holistic visual rehabilitation therapy for ex service men and women with acquired or traumatic brain injury

Sealladh offers a unique rehabilitation package designed to maximise the use of remaining vision for people who have experienced a brain injury. The programme consists of specialist rehabilitation support with training on static scanning techniques.

Sight loss can be a symptom of brain injury which is often overlooked.

The following behaviours are often present in people with neurological sight difficulties:

- Bumping into objects on one side
- Difficulty in locating objects which seem obvious
- Difficulty recognising faces or items
- Ignoring food on one side of the plate
- Shaving only one side of the face
- Seeing double or objects appearing to be hazy
- Difficulty moving through crowded areas
- Getting lost in familiar environments
- Suffering from increased glare sensitivity
- Difficulty making out detail in dimly lit situations
- Changes in reading ability

Static Scanning and Mobility

Sealladh assesses people through use of Neuro Visual Technology (NVT) a recently developed computerised system to assess visual field loss. Further sessions help people develop static scanning techniques to improve mobility and independence.

The training is enhanced by practical rehabilitation training in the following areas:

Mobility

- Navigation in familiar and unfamiliar environments
- Dynamic and busy environments e.g. public transport and road awareness

Communication

- Reading, writing and using alternative formats

Daily Living Activities

- Shopping and cooking
- Personal care
- House work
- Leisure activities

This Visibility service is free and can be accessed by all eligible people within Glasgow and the West of Scotland. Sealladh is funded by Scottish War Blinded.
